2023 PTAB Bar Annual Conference

March 8-10, 2023 | Washington DC

Welcome Letter

Dear Colleagues,

Welcome to the 2023 PTAB Bar Association Annual Conference! We are always excited to bring our community together, whether in person or virtually. Ours is a robust community, and we are grateful for your commitment to each other and the Association, and ultimately your commitment to practice before the PTAB.

We are delighted to again offer the option to livestream this year's conference with its unrivaled annual amalgamation of PTAB thought leadership to practitioners and industry partners across the country. For those taking part in the conference in person, we invite you to attend the social events each evening to take full advantage of the opportunities to network with your colleagues and friends (additional details on those events can be found in your virtual program).

We also offer an enthusiastic welcome to the Under Secretary of Commerce for Intellectual Property and Director of the USPTO, Kathi Vidal, who will join us for a "Fireside" Chat at 5:00 p.m. on Thursday afternoon. In addition, we are pleased to welcome our speakers and attendees from the USPTO, including Chief Judge Scott Boalick (who will give the keynote address at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday), Kimberly Kelleher, OED, USPTO (who will participate in the panel discussion on ethics before the PTAB at 11:00 a.m. on Friday) and the dozens of Administrative Patent Judges and other USPTO dignitaries. Furthermore, we extend a special thanks to our panelists from the federal judiciary, including Federal Circuit Judge Pauline Newman, Magistrate Judge Christopher Burke, and Chief Administrative Law Judge Clark Cheney.

The Association's Annual Conference Committee has designed a fantastic program offering attendees fresh perspectives and original content on the subjects most relevant to post-grant practitioners and stakeholders. The agenda features sessions with experts, government officials, industry voices, academics, and other thought leaders that will provide participants with novel insights into the current issues facing those working and operating in the PTAB space. We hope you can make Wednesday's innovative "APJ Day," an afternoon program developed in concert with the USPTO and filled with opportunities for direct interaction with Administrative Patent Judges from the PTAB. Other exciting sessions this year include a debate over the current state of Section 112 law and a judges panel.

Every year the planning for this conference is a herculean task. From deciding on content, finding the best possible speakers and panelists, and taking care of all the logistical details, it is always amazing to see it all come together. The Board would like to recognize in particular the tremendous efforts of Heather Petruzzi, Fahd Patel, Laura Dueppen, Lissi Mojica, David Reese, and Dana Louttit, as well as the Board liaisons and other committee members whose efforts were integral to organizing this week's program. The PTAB's enduring support was also evident this year in the development of our conference agenda.

We must also take a moment to thank our generous sponsors, without whom this conference could not occur. We are grateful for your ongoing support.

Finally, although for many of us our daily activities have returned to pre-COVID routines, please be assured that the Association is committed faithfully to your health and safety. All attendees should feel comfortable wearing masks. We also have maintained our color-coded system for expressing social distancing preferences. We kindly ask that you respect the health and safety of other participants by complying with these preferences as well as all posted signage and instructions from event organizers and hotel employees.

We look forward to seeing all of you over the next few days!

Very truly yours,

2024 PTAB Bar Association Annual Conference

March 6-8, 2024 | The Ritz-Carlton, Washington, D.C.

About the PTAB Bar Association

The PTAB Bar Association History

The formation of the PTAB Bar Association traces its roots to the passage of the America Invents Act (“AIA”). The AIA went into effect in 2012 and fundamentally changed patent litigation by providing a new forum, new administrative judges, and new rules to resolve issues of patent validity. From 2012 to 2015, the number of new PTAB cases increased from just 111 new cases in 2012 to nearly 1800 new cases in 2015.

As with any new practice area, PTAB trial practice attracted new practitioners that specialize in this forum. These practitioners began to organically coalesce into an informal community. At the same time, they began to form ideas for further improving and professionalizing the still-emerging PTAB trial practice. The many PTAB practitioners realized that there existed no way to broadly communicate those ideas to the bar, let alone the PTAB itself. Thus, the idea of the PTAB Bar Association was born—to improve the stature of the PTAB legal profession, and to serve as an avenue for constructive dialogue between the bar community, the PTAB, and other stakeholders.

In early 2016, numerous PTAB practitioners, from the nation’s best known firms and industry leaders, joined together to create an organization that would encourage and facilitate the free flow of ideas regarding the evolving PTAB trial practice. On June 17, 2016, the PTAB Bar Association was formally incorporated into a non-profit entity.

Charter

The PTAB Bar Association seeks to preserve and promote the highest professional and ethical standards among lawyers and stakeholders who appear before the PTAB. The Association is dedicated to helping secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive resolution of every PTAB proceeding, and to maintaining or improving the reputation and stature of the legal profession and community associated with the PTAB. The Association will be economically self-sustaining and work to fulfill its vision through education, outreach, collaboration, and advocacy. The Association will serve as an avenue for constructive dialogue between the bar community, the PTAB, and other stakeholders.

Instructions for Obtaining CLE Credit

CLE applications have been submitted for the following states: AZ, CA, CO, DE, FL, GA, IL, KS, ME, MN, MO, NC, NJ, NY, OH, OR, PA, TX, VA, and WA.

For in-person attendees: All attorneys are required to sign in and out of each session at the CLE Desk in the Grand Ballroom Foyer. Additionally, any attendees requesting CLE credit must complete the digital CLE Request Form at the conclusion of the conference.

For virtual attendees: CLE credits are available during the live-streamed sessions; CLE is not available for recorded sessions watched at a later time. All attorneys seeking CLE Credit must complete the digital CLE Request Form found on the platform tab.

Attorneys licensed in the state(s) of AZ, DE, IN, IA, KS, LA, NE, NY, NJ, OH, PA, SC, TN, are required to obtain the visual CLE code given during each session. This code will be announced by the moderator at the middle of the session and also added to the chat for all of those attendees on the virtual platform.

All CLE requests with pre-approved states will be processed within 30 days. CLE certificates will be sent via email at the email address provided on the form.

While you are not required, we encourage you to complete the session and overall conference survey. Your opinion matters! The survey can be found at the CLE desk.

If you have any questions, please email us at cle-dept@alm.com.

Welcome Letter from Chairs

Dear Colleagues,

We are delighted to welcome you to the PTAB Bar Association's 2023 Annual Conference. The Annual Conference Committee has worked hard to ensure an engaging experience. We sincerely hope you enjoy all that the conference has to offer, and that this opportunity to interact with your peers reminds you of our strong community.

This year's conference promises an exciting array of topics from a diverse group of speakers who offer a broad range of viewpoints and insights. Our speakers will explore various cutting edge and complex issues, including the effective use of experts in a PTAB trial, hot topics, and a debate about the status of section 112 law. We are fortunate to have Director Kathi Vidal join us to share her perspectives in a fireside chat.

Back by popular demand, we are once again featuring "APJ Day!" on the first day of the conference (Wednesday, March 8). Three different sessions will cover a bootcamp, mock arguments, and a fun game of Family Feud.

When not enjoying the conference sessions, we encourage you to take the time to mingle with colleagues and members of the PTAB community during the networking breaks and at both the lunch and the evening receptions. On Wednesday evening, there will be a special wine-and-cheese pairing and on Thursday evening, attendees will be treated to mixologist stations and hors d'oeuvres, both guided by a Ritz Carlton chef.

This conference could not have happened without the efforts of all our dedicated volunteers. Over the last several months, members from industry and law firms donated countless hours to make this conference a success. We would like to thank the efforts of all of the other committees that helped over the past year, as well as our Board liaisons Dan Zeilberger, Josh Goldberg, and Scott Jarratt, and this year's PTAB Bar Association president, Dave Higer. A special thanks also goes to members of the Conference Committee, who helped us plan the conference. We are also deeply indebted to our sponsors, who are identified in our program, on our website, and on the conference slides during the breaks.

Finally, we would like to thank all of you. Your engagement and support are what keep the PTAB Bar Association growing and thriving.

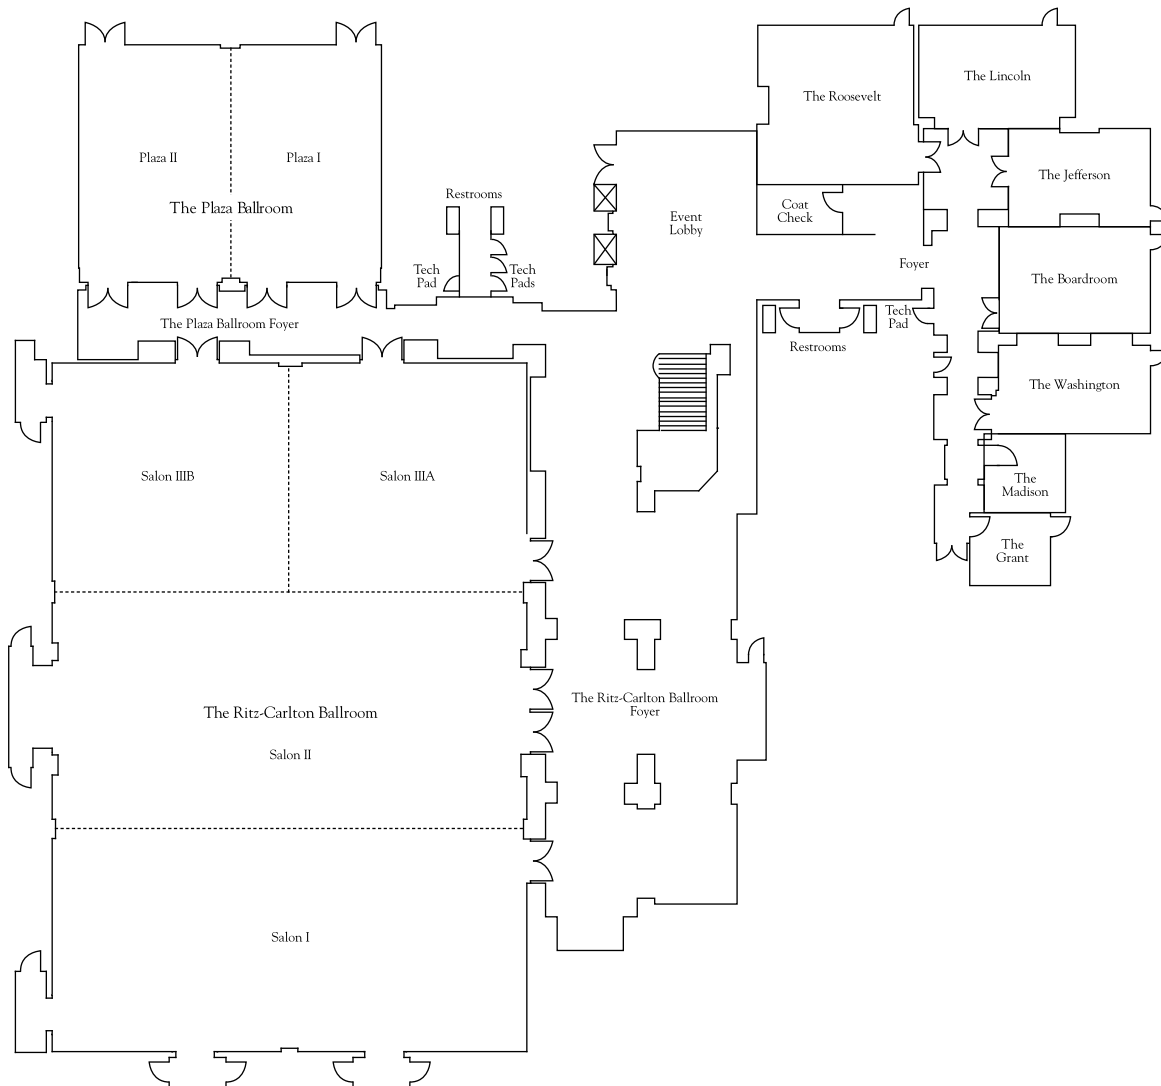

Sincerely,

Heather Petruzzi and Fahd Patel

2023 PTAB Bar Annual Conference

COVID 19 Information

Dear PTAB Bar Association Annual Conference Attendees, Speakers, and Sponsors:

Thank you to all who are attending the 2023 Annual Conference in-person. We are excited to be with you!

As always, the health & safety of our attendees is our top priority. We will continue to closely monitor local and federal guidelines regarding COVID-19 and are working closely with our hotel partner to ensure that our conference will be as safe as possible. All attendees should feel comfortable wearing masks.

Attendees coming from an area, or who have been recently traveling, where COVID is more prevalent are strongly encouraged to wear a mask as a safety precaution.

The following protocols will be in place for this conference:

- Hand sanitizer will be present at the registration table and on all conference tables in the ballroom.
- If you are not feeling well, and may have any type of contagious illness, please stay home.
- Recognizing that attendees will have differing comfort levels while networking at the conference, we will provide colored stickers that can be placed on each nametag at registration to reflect your wishes to navigate the sessions for the next several days. We will follow these guidelines:
 - Red – please keep your distance and a nod is appropriate for greeting
 - Yellow – an elbow bump will be sufficient, please don't get too close
 - Green – I am comfortable with a handshake or a hug while masked

The health and safety measures at the Ritz-Carlton Washington DC can be found on the Ritz Carlton Covid & Safety page.

We hope you enjoy a dynamic and rewarding conference this week. Thank you for your cooperation and support.

Safiya Aguilar
*Finnegan Henderson
Farabow Garratt &
Dunner LLP*

Safiya Aguilar is a former Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) law clerk and patent examiner at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). She uses her extensive knowledge of patent office practice to help firm clients navigate post grant proceedings and various aspects of pre-trial preparation, including validity and infringement analyses.

Safiya's technical knowledge covers a broad spectrum of complex technologies, including medical devices, machine vision, feedback controls, automobiles, fuel cells, computer hardware, fintech, and additive manufacturing. She has experience preparing petitions for inter partes review (IPR) and requests for ex parte reexamination, as well as conducting legal and factual research in support of infringement and invalidity disputes. Safiya advises clients on all aspects of patent strategy, including validity opinions, landscape analysis, due diligence, and prosecution.

As a judicial law clerk, Safiya assisted administrative patent judges (APJs) with adjudicating America Invents Act (AIA) trials and ex parte appeals across chemical, electrical, mechanical, and pharmaceutical technologies. During her more than seven years as a patent examiner, Safiya evaluated the patentability of various medical devices, including spinal implants and prosthetics; image-guided and robotic surgical systems; internal and external fixation devices; and retractors.

Safiya devotes a portion of her time to pro bono matters. She has worked extensively with asylum-seeking clients and advocated on behalf of inmates seeking compassionate release over the course of the COVID-19 pandemic. She has been recognized on the Capital Pro Bono Honor Roll and received high honors.

Michelle Aspen
Unified Patents LLC

Michelle Aspen is Senior Patent Counsel for Unified Patents, where her practice focuses on challenging patents in post-grant proceedings before the United States Patent and Trademark Office, appeals, and advocating for robust patent policy. Her work covers a broad range of technology zones, including cloud technology, internet-of-things, video coding and streaming, transaction software, telecommunications, and additional computer and software-oriented technology. Michelle has also supervised outside counsel in these technology areas, both before the USPTO and the European Patent Office. Before joining Unified, Michelle was a patent litigator championing clients both in district court, both as defendant and plaintiff, and before the PTAB. Michelle is an outspoken advocate for the PTAB's LEAP and encourages outside counsel to engage where possible.

Michael Babbitt
*Willke Farr &
Gallagher LLP*

Michael G. Babbitt is a partner in the firm's Litigation and Intellectual Property Departments in Chicago. Michael focuses his practice on complex civil litigation and counseling involving patents and technology.

Utilizing his background in electrical and computer engineering, Michael advises clients in the areas of consumer electronics, industrial machines, food processing machinery, power distribution systems, data centers, wireless networks, semiconductors, video and audio technology, and automotive/vehicle systems, as well as many other technologies. He is a registered patent attorney before the US Patent Office and regularly argues before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board as lead counsel.

Michael has deep experience leading high-profile patent and technology disputes, including those involving competitors and strategically significant technologies. He has a proven record of success in scores of patent litigations and scores of Patent Office proceedings. He has also won eight major patent rulings in the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. Michael also has experience with matters involving trade secret, non-disclosure agreement, contract, antitrust, privacy, and trademark issues, among others.

Michael is the pro bono coordinator for the Chicago office and is strongly committed to the firm's nationally recognized pro bono practice. He won a verdict of not guilty as lead trial attorney for a client falsely accused of attempted murder in Chicago. He also has argued a direct criminal appeal before the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals and has represented clients in multiple federal civil rights and prisoner rights matters.

LLP*

Harper Batts is a partner in the Intellectual Property Practice Group located in the firm's Silicon Valley office. He is also the leader of Sheppard Mullin's Post Grant Proceedings (PTAB) Group.

Harper has almost two decades of experience as an intellectual property litigator and client counselor. Harper has obtained institution on more than 95% of the IPRs he has filed – a number unmatched across the country. Numerous Fortune 500 clients have relied upon his experience to represent them in highly contentious patent disputes in venues across the country. He has been selected multiple times as a Top IP Attorney in California by the Daily Journal, and IAM Patent 1000 noted that Harper “performs adroitly in post-grant proceedings on both the patent owner and petitioner sides.” In 2021, he obtained institution of numerous petitions for inter partes review, obtained numerous final written decisions finding all claim unpatentable, and obtained an exceptional case finding and an award of attorney's fees in the Central District of California in 2020.

He focuses on immediately determining the most relevant and effective pressure points against an adversary to quickly resolve a dispute with minimal disruption and cost to a client.

Harper is one of the leading attorneys for handling complex PTAB challenges across a variety of technologies, having obtained institution on almost every IPR he has filed. Harper has represented patent challengers and patent owners in more than 80 CBM and IPR proceedings. He has extensive experience in cases before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board.

Clients continue to rely on Harper's experience litigating in other venues, including the United States Court of Appeal for the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, the International Trade Commission and district courts known for their patent litigation cases, including the Northern District of California and the Eastern District of Texas.

In addition to his extensive IP litigation experience, Harper has frequently been called upon to conduct negotiations between direct competitors, as well as conducting due diligence regarding the potential acquisition of large patent portfolios.

A sought-after speaker, Harper has presented and written publications concerning his experience and insights concerning post-grant proceedings.

Harper is experienced in numerous technology areas, including semiconductors, computer software, e-commerce, wireless technology, telecommunications, medical devices and hardware technology.

Judge Burke currently serves as the Chairman of the Federal Trial Practice Seminar, a trial skills development program jointly sponsored by the United States District Court for the District of Delaware and the Federal Bar Association's Delaware Chapter. He also presides over the District Court's criminal Re-entry Court, which focuses on providing oversight, support and assistance to individuals serving terms of federal supervised release. He assists in overseeing the administration of the District Court's Federal Civil Panel, which provides representation to indigent parties with civil cases pending before the Court.

And he created and oversees the District Court's High School Summer Fellowship Program, which provides mentoring to high school-aged youth in New Castle County and exposes those students to the work of the federal court system.

David Cavanaugh
WilmerHale LLP

David Cavanaugh has broad legal experience in industry and private practice and provides clients with strategic, business-focused counseling in the procurement, management and exploitation of their intellectual property. He has extensive experience in all aspects of intellectual property practice, including IP litigation, patent procurement, technology transfer and licensing, and due diligence for corporate transactions. Mr. Cavanaugh has developed and implemented intellectual property strategies suited for companies at all stages, from early startup phase to established business phase.

Since the implementation of the America Invents Act, Mr. Cavanaugh has been active in post-grant proceedings at the US Patent Office and was recently named by Patexia as one of the most active attorneys in inter partes review (IPR). He has filed petitions and represented patent owners in a variety of technologies and has been lead counsel or counsel of record on roughly 400 IPR proceedings. As lead counsel he has presented at dozens of oral hearings at the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB). He has also developed strategies for using IPRs as a vehicle toward settlement of related district court cases as well as developed strategies for joinder of parties. Mr. Cavanaugh has also represented patent owners in IPR proceedings and developed successful IPR strategies for patent owners.

Along with IPRs, Mr. Cavanaugh routinely develops strategies for other post-grant proceedings such as ex parte reexaminations and reissues. He has extensive experience in inter partes reexamination and interferences. These procedures can be used to develop comprehensive strategies using all the procedures the US Patent Office provides.

Prior to joining the firm, Mr. Cavanaugh was a senior patent counsel in the legal department of Boston Scientific Corporation, responsible for the intellectual property matters in the radiology, neurology, urology and endoscopy divisions. Prior to his work with Boston Scientific, Mr. Cavanaugh was associated with Wolf, Greenfield and Sacks in Boston, where he provided patent support to a variety of medical device clients. Mr. Cavanaugh also has been a patent examiner at the Patent Office, where he examined patent applications in a variety of technologies.

Mr. Cavanaugh is a sought-after speaker on post-grant proceedings, specifically IPRs. He developed the post-grant class and curriculum for the American University Washington College of Law, where he has taught classes on patent litigation and post-grant proceedings since 2014. He has also frequently lectured on patent law-related topics at the New England College of Law.

Mr. Cavanaugh served on the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Medical Device Industry Council for six years, and he was also a board member of the New England Business and Technology Association. He has been selected by the Massachusetts

Professor Darden is a Visiting Associate

Clinical Professor and Director of the new Intellectual Property and Technology Clinic. Professor Lolita Darden is a registered patent attorney whose scholarship focuses on the protection and preservation of intellectual property rights for creators and inventors, particularly those who are under resourced. More specifically, she focuses on the constitutional impact of the recent changes in US intellectual property laws and exploring concepts regarding access and equity in the protection and maintenance of IP rights.

Prior to joining the GW community, Professor Darden was an Associate Clinical Professor at Suffolk University Law School. She was also a lecturer of law, teaching intellectual property courses such as intellectual property survey, trademark law and practice, trademark law, and patent law. Professor Darden was also the Director of Suffolk Law School's Intellectual Property and Entrepreneurship Clinic, a multi-disciplinary clinic providing pro bono counseling and legal services for new and emerging businesses.

Prior to joining Suffolk, she was a partner at Sachnoff & Weaver, Ltd. and manager of the firm's patent prosecution group. Professor Darden counseled emerging technology businesses on all aspects of IP protection, including rights in patents, trademarks, and copyrights. She served as Chief IP Counsel for Duracraft Corporation, where Professor Darden worked closely with marketing and product development teams and managed all IP litigation and IP protection programs.

Speakers

During her career, Professor Darden has had the opportunity to participate in several precedent setting patent and trademark cases, including Atlantic Thermoplastics v. Faytex Corp. (precedential ruling regarding product-by-process claim interpretation), Micron Separations, Inc. v. Pall Corporation -- the companion case to Markman v. Westview Instruments (precedential case setting claim construction as a question of law), and *Curtin v. Erin Dunston
*Panitch Schwarze
Belisario & Nadel LLP*

Erin M. Dunston focuses her practice on patent procurement, opinions, enforcement (both in district courts and before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board), and portfolio strategy. With clients ranging from individual inventors to large, multi-national companies, Erin tailors her approach to each client's goals. Erin's matters are primarily in the life science space (small molecules, large molecules, and medical devices), but she has handled projects on subject matter ranging from precipitated silica to vaccines to radiotherapy devices.

Over the course of her over twenty-year career, Erin M. Dunston's practice has been a purposeful mix of patent prosecution and litigation. Having handled many patent litigations, Erin recognizes how every word in prosecution may ultimately be analyzed by the fact-finder and thus strives for efficient, law- and science-driven prosecution. Her extensive prosecution experience, in turn, is invaluable when analyzing prosecution documents and issues as part of a litigation. With a background in biochemistry, she concentrates her practice primarily in the fields of biotechnology, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and associated computer technology.

In terms of patent prosecution, counseling, and strategy, Erin learns her clients' businesses and how a given project will advance the client's business objectives, from both offensive and defensive standpoints. Erin also works closely with clients to satisfy budget constraints and assist in leveraging and monetizing patent assets.

To date, Erin has handled more than 20 district court litigations and more than 25 inter partes reviews (IPRs) and more than 40 interferences before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (P.T.A.B.). Assisting both patent owners and putative infringers/petitioners, this experience ranges from pre-filing analyses all the way through appeals to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit.

Her deep experience in patent law has been recognized by several leading IP organizations and awards programs. Erin has been selected for inclusion among The Best Lawyers in America each year since 2018. She also has been recognized in IAM's Patent 1000 list – a best-in-class listing of patent prosecution, licensing, and Thomas L. Giannetti is an Administrative Patent Judge on the Patent Trial and Appeal Board at the United States Patent and Trademark Office. He joined the Board in March 2012 after practicing IP law in New York City for over 34 years. He was an associate and then partner at Fish & Neave for 25 years, and thereafter a partner at Jones Day New York for nine years. While in private practice he specialized in patent infringement trials and related matters involving computers, electronics, and other complex technologies.

He graduated from Yale University with a B.S. in Engineering and Applied Science, and also holds an M.S. in Electrical Engineering from Carnegie Mellon University and a J.D. from the George Washington University Law School. Prior to law school he was an engineer at Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Josh Goldberg
*Finnegan, Henderson,
Farabow, Garrett &
Dunner LLP*

Joshua Goldberg, leader of Finnegan's PTAB trials section, focuses on inter partes review (IPR), covered business method (CBM), and post-grant review (PGR) proceedings before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO), and on ensuing appeals to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit.

As lead or backup counsel in more than 300 IPRs, CBMs, and PGRs, Josh represents petitioners and patent owners in proceedings involving patents directed to, for example, display, graphical user interface, consumer electronics, software, cloud computing, image processing, mobile applications, semiconductor, electronic banking, Internet, telecommunications, storage, integrated circuit, mechanical, industrial manufacturing, automotive, chemical, and medical device technologies. He is a director of the PTAB Bar Association and also coauthors The Practitioner's Guide to Trials Before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board, ABA, Section of IP Law.

In his PTAB practice, Josh routinely leads teams of attorneys in simultaneous challenges to or defenses of multiple patents involved in high-stakes litigation. He splits his time approximately 60/40 between representing petitioners and patent owners. Thus, when working for petitioners, he is able to anticipate and preemptively address the moves of patent owners. And, when working for patent owners, he is able to anticipate and preemptively address the moves of petitioners.

Nearly 50 of the IPRs Josh has worked on are associated with International Trade Commission (ITC) cases, and dozens are associated with standards ranging from IEEE and ETSI networking and communications standards to MPEG compression standards to GPS standards and others. Josh was listed as one of the top eight attorneys representing patent owners and petitioners at the PTAB in 2016, according to Managing Intellectual Property; and one of the top five attorneys at the PTAB in 2015 and 2017, according to Docket Navigator Year in Review.

Josh complements his PTAB practice with litigation and counseling practices. In his litigation practice, he represents clients in U.S. district courts. In his counseling practice, he helps clients navigate competitors' intellectual property, providing strategic advice through opinions of counsel on patent infringement, patent validity, and other intellectual property issues. He works with clients to secure their intellectual property with global patent portfolios and counsels them on various matters.

Josh managed the prosecution of more than 100 patent applications for a manufacturer of drug delivery (e.g., capsule) products. He also managed a special claim drafting project in which Finnegan attorneys worked closely with representatives of a Fortune 100 consumer electronics company to define best practices for drafting and prosecuting patent applications.

Josh has experience with a variety of mechanical and electrical technologies, including vehicular, industrial manufacturing, mining, computer, Internet, semiconductor, network security, network topology, display, communications, imaging, consumer electronics, and robotics technologies. He has written both application and operating system software, and is familiar with several programming languages, including C, C++, FORTRAN, Intel Assembly, Java, Perl, SQL, and VBA. He has also lectured on electroactive polymers, superchargers, and turbochargers. As part of a senior capstone project at Drake University, Josh developed computer models to explore performance gains achievable by various methods of coupling a combustion engine with off-the-shelf hybrid vehicle technology.

Jessica Kaiser
*Arnold & Porter Kaye
Scholer LLP*

Jessica Kaiser resolves complex intellectual property disputes for established and emerging companies in the technology, telecommunications and life sciences sectors. With nearly two decades of experience divided between the bench and the bar—including as a former Lead Administrative Patent Judge (LAPJ) at the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) and a partner at an international law firm—Ms. Kaiser combines patent trial and appellate experience, judicial acumen and technical knowledge of Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) practice to benefit clients involved with patent litigation, America Invents Act (AIA) trials and ex parte appeals in the nation's most significant patent jurisdictions.

As an LAPJ at the USPTO, Ms. Kaiser managed and decided numerous cases before the PTAB in AIA trials (both inter partes reviews and post-grant reviews) and ex parte appeals during the original prosecution of patents. She also worked closely with USPTO and PTAB leadership in developing and implementing PTAB reforms, including agency rulemaking, a pilot program for motions to amend patent claims during AIA trials, PTAB statistics, and remote hearing operations. Prior to joining the USPTO, Ms. Kaiser was a staff attorney in the Office of General Counsel at the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, where she provided legal advice to the court, including on mandamus petitions and all types of motions filed prior to an appeal being assigned to a merits panel.

Fish & Richardson PC

Tom Rozyłowicz is a principal in Fish's Washington, D.C., office, where his practice includes all aspects of intellectual property law, with particular emphasis on patent procurement, post-grant America Invents Act proceedings, and licensing in the software, electronics, communications, and medical device fields.

Tom works with clients ranging from Fortune 100 to emerging companies in establishing and managing comprehensive IP programs that add capital value to clients and protect their products and markets. Tom provides patent procurement counsel to clients developing innovative business intelligence, telecommunications, network, biometric, software, semiconductors, medical device, and physical access control technologies. For example, an IEEE survey ranked a patent portfolio that Tom built was among the top in the software industry.

Tom also has experience in post-grant proceedings before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board. With a strong technical foundation, he represents both patent owners and petitioners in establishing positions before the PTAB for patents that are often in patent litigation. Tom has managed more than 90 AIA post-grant matters and is a member of the board of directors of the PTAB Bar Association, the first national bar association of its kind to form in more than 30 years. He previously served as conference chairman for the association, where he supported a national conference designed to foster best practices before the PTAB. Tom also provides general IP counseling on other strategic IP issues including risk assessment, patent opinions, patent mapping, patent categorization, and industry benchmarking.

With a diverse practice, Tom also enjoys working with early-stage companies. He has developed programs that reconcile existing asset management systems with docket management systems and extranets in order to better manage their developing IP.

Tom previously worked as a senior electrical engineer and a law clerk for the National Security Agency in Fort Meade, Maryland, where he directed leading-edge research efforts to develop secure communications equipment for the Department of Defense and the national intelligence community (1999-2000). He was also chief of network operations for the Office of the Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisitions, Pentagon, Virginia, where he designed and managed a nationwide network upgrade supporting broadcast quality video and H.323 video conferencing, enabling the undersecretary to directly engage the entire DoD acquisition community (1994-1999). Tom also served as a captain in the U.S. Air Force (1998-2001).

Dr. Stephanie Schonewald
Choate Hall & Stewart LLP

counsels biotech and pharmaceutical companies on the strategic development of patent portfolios, patent prosecution, and post-grant patent challenges.

Stephanie advises clients who are involved in contentious patent scenarios. She has handled a variety of third party submissions, protests, and post-grant proceedings before the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). She has worked on over 55 inter partes review, post grant review, and covered business method review proceedings before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB).

Stephanie also advises clients on the management of their US patent office activity alongside other global patent activity. For example, she routinely consults with clients on European third party observations and oppositions. She has also consulted with clients on post-grant challenges in other key jurisdictions, including Australia and Japan.

Stephanie's skills in managing patent disputes were developed, in part, through her district court patent litigation experience. She has litigated and advised clients regarding complex patent infringement and validity issues in a variety of jurisdictions across the country.

Stephanie's clients include

Regeneron Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Foundation Medicine, Inc., BioNTech SE, Akouos, Inc., Momenta Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Progenics Pharmaceuticals, and Saudi Arabian Oil Company.

Thomas Scott
Personalized Media Communications

Tom Scott joined PMC full-time in 2014 as the Company's General Counsel after having served as the Company's outside patent counsel since 1985. Mr. Scott has been a practicing patent attorney for over forty years, working in all areas of intellectual property practice, including patent portfolio development, patent and trademark counseling, patent and trademark litigation, appellate practice before the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and patent and technology licensing. During his career, Mr. Scott headed the Intellectual Property practices at two major law firms, Hunton & Williams and Goodwin Procter LLP. Mr. Scott has authored or co-authored numerous publications in the area of Intellectual Property and is a frequent speaker on Intellectual Property subjects at professional organizations.

Nina Srejovic
Georgetown University Law Center

Nina Srejovic is a Visiting Professor and Acting Director of the Intellectual Property and Information Policy (iPIP) Clinic.

Before coming to Georgetown Law, she litigated several landmark intellectual property cases for bioscience and technology clients, including successfully representing biotech pioneer Cetus Corporation in the trial upholding the validity of Cetus' patents for Kari Mullis' Nobel Prize-winning polymerase chain reaction (PCR) technology. She also served on the Attorney Advisory Committee for the District Court for the Northern District of California and managed the court's Case Management Pilot Program to reduce cost and delay in civil litigation. Professor Srejovic's research tackles the intersection of new technologies and intellectual property and examines root causes for the underrepresentation of women in the innovation narrative. Professor Srejovic is a member of the patent bar and is licensed to practice in California and the District of Columbia. She holds a J.D., cum laude, from the University of Michigan Law School and a B.A., with distinction, in economics from Stanford University.

Vice Chief Judge Michael P. Tierney
United States Patent and Trademark Office

Vice Chief Administrative

Patent Judge Michael P. Tierney was appointed to the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) on July 31, 2000. Vice Chief Judge Tierney joined the PTAB as an administrative patent judge in the Chemical Section, where he handled ex parte appeals of chemical cases. Later, Vice Chief Judge Tierney worked as a member of the Interference Trial Section, where he worked on interferences, reexaminations, and supervised two patent attorneys working on ex parte appeals. As part of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) implementation of the America Invents Act (AIA), Vice Chief Judge Tierney led the PTAB's comprehensive effort on trial rulemaking. He worked closely with USPTO executive officials, trial judges, the patent community, and other members of the public to develop the trial rules. Vice Chief Judge Tierney has given numerous presentations to educate the patent community on the statutory provisions, proposed rules, and final rules for the AIA administrative trials.

Speakers

Vice Chief Judge Tierney joined the USPTO as a patent examiner, where he primarily examined applications for chemical compositions. Prior to his appointment to the PTAB, Vice Chief Judge Tierney served as an associate at Morgan, Lewis & Bockius, LLP, where his practice concentrated on patent litigation, opinions, and prosecution.

Buddy Toliver

Sabra joined Western Digital in 2015 as in-house patent counsel. In 2020, she created She Invents, Western Digital's female inventor program, and has led the program ever since. Prior to law school, Sabra earned a B.S. in Computer Science and Engineering and an M.Eng. in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science from MIT.

Andrew Turner
Brooks Kushman PC

Andy Turner is a shareholder at Brooks Kushman and Co-Chair of Brooks' Post-Grant Proceedings practice. He holds degrees in both electrical and mechanical engineering and focuses his practice on post-grant proceedings, patent prosecution, patent portfolio management, and opinion preparation. His practice encompasses a wide range of technical areas, including hybrid and electric vehicle systems, autonomous vehicle technology, audio systems, lighting systems including smart home technology, and exercise equipment.

Andy represents petitioners and patent owners in post-grant proceedings including inter partes review, reissue, and protest. He has successfully challenged hundreds of claims for petitioners and secured multiple decisions denying institution for patent owners. Andy also has experience with litigation related to IPRs and has appeared in over 20 IPR appeals to the Federal Circuit.

Prior to his legal career, Andy was an engineer in the automotive industry for 6 years. He designed and developed several electro-mechanical systems, including adjustable pedals, brake systems, and battery charging systems.

Director Kathi Vidal
Under Secretary of Commerce for Intellectual Property and Director of the United States Patent and Trademark Office

Kathi Vidal serves as the Under Secretary of Commerce for Intellectual Property and Director of the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) – America's Innovation Agency.

As the chief executive of the USPTO, she leads one of the largest intellectual property (IP) offices in the world, with more than 13,000 employees and an annual budget of more than $4 billion. She is the principal IP advisor to the President and the Administration, through the Secretary of Commerce, and is focused on incentivizing and protecting U.S. innovation, entrepreneurship, and creativity. She leads an agency whose mission is to help American workers and businesses compete and collaborate, especially in groundbreaking technologies and across all demographics. As Director of the USPTO, Vidal is working to expand American innovation for and from all, and to bring more ideas to impact, including serving as the Vice Chair of the Council for Inclusive

Innovation (CI²), alongside Secretary of Commerce Gina M. Raimondo and the Council members.

Director Vidal grew up in a career military family and spent her childhood on military bases in the United States, Panama, Germany, and the Azorean Islands (Portugal). She learned the value of hard work, financial security, and education from her parents, who often held multiple jobs and attended classes at night and on weekends to earn their bachelor's and master's degrees.

Her interest in science led her to attend Binghamton University at the age of 16, where she received her bachelor's in electrical engineering. Before graduating, she started her career at General Electric (GE) Aerospace (later Lockheed Martin). She was selected into the Edison Engineering Program and pursued her master's in electrical engineering in Syracuse University's night program. During her time at GE, she designed one of the first artificial intelligence systems for aircraft, as well as aircraft and engine-control systems that continue to keep our military safe today.

Recognizing the value of innovation, Director Vidal pursued a career in IP. She put herself through law school and obtained a Juris Doctor from the University of Pennsylvania, where she was Editor-in-Chief of the University of Pennsylvania Law Review. After clerking for Judge Alvin Anthony Schall on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, Director Vidal joined Fish & Richardson P.C., where she became a recognized expert on IP law, led a litigation group of 270 attorneys in 11 global offices, and served on the firm's Management Committee. She later joined Winston & Strawn LLP, where she served on the firm's Executive Committee and was Managing Partner of its Silicon Valley office. Throughout her career, Director Vidal has represented new innovators and startup companies with limited resources. She has also represented many of our country's most successful and well-known companies.

Director Vidal has helped harness and protect innovation at all levels. Prior to joining the USPTO, she represented both patent holders and defendants in U.S. district courts and the International Trade Commission. She has also been deeply involved in practice before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB), argued numerous Federal Circuit appeals, and led amicus efforts on important cases before the Federal Circuit and the Supreme Court. She has received many awards as a top litigator and was inducted into the Litigation Counsel of America, a society of the leading American trial lawyers.

Director Vidal has spent her career championing the importance of mentoring and expanding opportunities to include more individuals from underserved communities. She has played an active role on the advisory board of Chiefs in Intellectual Property (ChIPs), a network of women leaders in technology, law, and policy, and on other boards and committees focused on diversity and inclusion, and has mentored diverse women across the globe as part of the Fortune-U.S. Department of State Global Women's Mentoring Partnership program. She builds on that work today.

John Whealan
George Washington University, Law School

Dean for Intellectual Property Law Studies at George Washington Law School, a position he has held for fifteen years. As Associate Dean for IP, he coordinates all aspects of the law schools IP program. Dean Whealan also regularly teaches Patent Law, and a course on the Federal Circuit.

Before joining GW Law, John had the rare honor of serving in all three branches of government (plus one independent Commission) in the area of IP law. He has worked at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) as the Deputy General Counsel for IP Law and Solicitor, where he oversaw all IP litigation and IP agency advice. He served as Counsel to the Senate Judiciary Committee working on the legislation that eventually became the American Invents Act (AIA). He clerked for two Judges: Randall R. Rader of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and James Turner of the U.S. Court of Federal Claims. John also was a Staff Attorney at the U.S. International Trade Commission where he worked on several Section 337 litigations. John has also worked in private practice for Fish & Neave, and as an engineer for General Electric. And he has taught at other law schools including Franklin Pierce, George Mason, and Chicago-Kent.

Over his career John has argued approximately 30 cases before the Federal Circuit (including three en banc) and served as primary counsel in hundreds of such cases. He has also served on the Federal Circuit Advisory Council by three different Chief Judges (CJ Michel, Rader and Prost).

Dean Whealan holds a BS in Electrical Engineering from Villanova University; an MS in Electrical Engineering from Drexel University; and a JD, from Harvard University.

Dean Whealan is also regularly hired in his private capacity. He is most often hired either to consult on patent appeals or to serve as an expert. Dean Whealan has worked on numerous matters for leading technology companies as clients and with leading law firms.

Alex Yap
*Morrison & Foerster
LLP*

Alex Yap is a partner in the Intellectual Property Group.

As a former administrative patent law judge at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO), he helps clients navigate post-grant adversarial proceedings before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB). He focuses his practice on America Invents Act (AIA) trials before the PTAB, as well as IP litigation matters.

Prior to rejoining the firm, Alex served as an administrative patent judge at the USPTO in San Jose, CA. In that capacity, he presided on ex parte appeals, inter partes review (IPR), and covered business method (CBM) patent proceedings.

Utilizing his electrical and computer engineering degrees and experience from senior engineering roles, Alex spent 11 years at MoFo advising technology clients on patent litigations. During that time, he was involved in PTO reexamination/review proceedings and obtained cancellations of the asserted claims in numerous cases.

Prior to becoming a lawyer, Alex spent more than four years as a circuit design engineer for Freescale (formerly Motorola, Inc.) and Analog Devices, Inc., designing embedded non-volatile (flash) memories and asymmetric digital subscriber line (ADSL) chipsets. During that time, he developed extensive expertise in computer hardware and software architecture, communication systems, digital and analog circuit design, and digital signal processing. He has published numerous technical articles in trade journals and is an inventor on multiple U.S. patents.
